116th Congress

House Sponsors: Paul Tonko (D-NY) & Andy Barr (R-KY)

Senate Sponsors: Kirsten Gillibrand (D-NY) & Martha McSally (R-AZ)

*"Our goal has to be zero horse deaths in horseracing.
I won't stop working on this issue until we make that happen."*

❖ Paul Tonko

Horseracing is a Major Economic Driver

- The horseracing industry generates some $15.6 billion in direct economic impact
- More than 241,000 U.S. jobs are supported by the horseracing industry
- Many states benefit from the horseracing industry in the form of economic and job development
 - In New York, horseracing contributes more than $3 billion annually
 - In Maryland, some 20,000 jobs are sustained by the horseracing industry

Lack of Uniformity Hurts Horses & the Sport

- There are 38 unique state racing commissions, each with different rules and regulations
- Roughly half of all Thoroughbred starts in the U.S. are from horses that compete in more than one state and nearly eighty percent of wagers are across state lines
- Nearly every country except for the U.S. has banned race-day medication, limiting the ability of American breeders, trainers and horses to compete abroad

Congress Needs to Stop Horsing Around!

The Horseracing Integrity Act would establish a uniform national medication program, encourage fair competition, modernize regulations across state lines and prioritize the safety and welfare of the people and equine athletes involved in the noble sport of kings.

The Horseracing Integrity Act

1. Provides for the increased safety and welfare of horses, jockeys and drivers
2. Establishes a conflict-free, self-regulatory organization responsible for creating and implementing an anti-doping program for the entire horseracing industry
3. Develops standardized list of permitted and prohibited substances, treatments and methods for all covered races in the United States
4. Bans the use of all medications within 24 hours of a race
5. Requires full & fair information disclosure to breeding stock purchasers and the wagering public

Supported by: Humane Society of the U.S., New York Racing Association, American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA), Animal Welfare Institute, the Water Hay Oats Alliance, the Jockey Club, Animal Wellness Action, the Breeders' Cup, Keeneland Association, the Kentucky Thoroughbred Association, the Thoroughbred Owners and Breeders Association, the Stronach Group, and some of the nation's top trainers.

Congress can strengthen the competitiveness and legitimacy of America's sport of kings while lifting up the health and nobility of the equine athlete. The time to act is now!
